

Paul Vernall, Academic Director for Culinary, inducted as a member of La Chaîne des Rôtisseurs

Paul Vernall, Academic Director for The International Culinary School at The Art Institute of Vancouver was welcomed into the prestigious Chaîne des Rôtisseurs organization, at an event in the Marriott Pinnacle Hotel in Vancouver, on November 15, 2008.

Paul's recognition by La Chaîne is the latest addition to his professional accomplishments, already being an Associate Member of the Hotel and Catering Institutional Management Association and The Royal Society of Health (both British). His background in Hospitality Management, Hotel Administration, and Education has a global reach, with his work experience spanning the United Kingdom, The Bahamas, and British Columbia.

On being given membership to La Chaîne, which is by invitation only, Paul said, "It's an incredible honour for myself and for the school to be recognized in this way and to be welcomed as a member into such a prestigious and well respected organization." Paul's membership is under the title of "Chef de Table", which means "Maître d'Hôtel or chef cooking at the table."

La Chaîne des Rôtisseurs is an international gastronomic society founded in Paris in 1950, and has members in more than 120 countries around the world. Membership in La Chaîne offers the opportunity for new members to meet people who share a common interest in fine dining and good fellowship.
